W. H. OEHLERT IS AGAIN ON TRIAL

Twelve Jurymen Selected From a Venire of Fifty-Six

30 OTHERS SUMMONED

Witnesses Who Appeared at the First Trial Repeat Their Testimony—But Few Spectators Present.

The second trial of William H. Oehlert, charged with shooting and killing Linwood Kidwell, which occurred November 12, 1918, at the office of the yardmaster of the Southern Railway Company, this city, began at 10 o'clock this morning in the Corporation Court, Judge R. H. L. Chichester, Fredericksburg, presiding.

The accused is represented by Attorney Edmund Burke and the prosecution is being conducted by Commonwealth's Attorney Howard W. Smith.

Fifty-six veniremen had been summoned, and the work of securing the necessary sixteen jurymen began. Most of these summoned had expressed opinions, some fixed, concerning the shooting, and were excused. Twelve only had been accepted when the venire became exhausted. The court ordered the summoning of thirty additional citizens from which to complete the jury.

The court shortly before noon took a recess until 1:30 p. m.

After reconvening the necessary sixteen were finally obtained. They follow: L. Edwin Butts, H. Barbour Beach, John W. Herndon, Charles E. Mundy, C .W. Valentine, Ervin G. Schwarzmann, John M. McGee, William E. Clark, Jr., Walter Langley, William S. Royster, William G. Simpson, Jr., Artuhr N. Pettit, Robert Lipp, James Garvey, W. Selden Washington and Thomas A. Larkin.

The names of Messrs. Butts, Herndon, McGee and Garvey were subsequently stricken off.

The examination of witnesses followed.

The railway employees who were in the yard master's office at the time Kidwell was shot were the first to be placed on the stand. Their testimony was upon lines similar to those at the first trial.

MEET AT MOUNT VERNON

The Mount Vernon Ladies' Association of the Union held its fifty-third session at Mount Vernon yesterday, with twenty-four States represented. Mrs. H. W. Rogers, vice regent for Maryland, presided in the absence of the regent, Miss H. C. Comegys.

BOND DRIVE NEARS CLOSE

Final Hours of Victory Drive Marked by Activity

TOMORROW LAST DAY

All Urged to Purchase Bonds Before Close—Banks Will Be Open Tonight and Tomorrow Night

Two more days remain in which to purchase Victory Bonds. Tomorrow will be the last day of the Victory Bond drive. The banks will be open tonight for the sale of these bonds. If you cannot call tonight go tomorrow and if in the event you are unable to go during the day don't fail to go before the banks close tomorrow night and purchase your share of the best bonds ever offered by Uncle Sam which bear four and three quarters per cent interest.

Alexandria has done splendidly, having gone over the top before many other cities. However, Alexandria should not feel satisfied with going over the top, but should endeavor to increase her quota by at least twenty-five per cent.

If every person in Alexandria who could afford it would purchase these bonds Alexandria would double her quota.

Every one should remember that in purchasing these bonds they are helping Uncle Sam in his great plans for reconstruction and also at the same time helping themselves, for they will secure four and three quarters per cent interest free from taxation. This is far better than a greater amount of interest in some doubtful proposition which will be taxed to the limit.

Practically every prominent banker in the country predicts that these bonds will go above par very soon.

The members of the Local Victory Loan Committee encouraged by the magnificent response on the part of citizens in putting Alexandria over the top will continue their activity until the curtain is drawn down tomorrow night on the Victory Bond Drive.

The committee will not be satisfied that this city has subscribed its quota, but desires to go as far as possibly can be done over the top.

SALVATION ARMY DRIVE

A five cent piece boasts of a diameter one sixteenth of an inch larger than a penny. It takes 84,000 pennies, placed edge to edge to make a string one mile long. Therefore, it will take (figure that part out for yourself) but the total number of five cent pieces is the minimum amount that the Surveyor's Customs Welfare Association of the Port of New York will collect and contribute to the $13,000,000 Salvation Army Home Service Fund. They will collect the mile or more, of nickles during the campaign week, May 19-26.

The Association is composed of the Government employees in the Surveyor's department. Surveyor of the Port Thomas E. Rush is Honorary President of the Association and will hold the Honorary chairmanship of the "Mile of Nickels' Committee." James S. Long, President of the Association, will actively head the walk along the mile of nickels. There are fifteen men in the department which occupies part of the great Customs Building at the foot of Broadway, New York City. Each and every one of these men, inspectors, weighers, gaugers, samplers, guards, clerks and laborers, daily come in contact with thousands of business men and travelers from all of whom nickles will be asked.

"SIAMESE TWINS" ARE LEFT TO HER

Lexington, Ky., May. 9.—Mrs. Myer Rathbaum, of Louisville, known to theatrical people as Edith Emily Myers, has received word that by the will of the late Mrs. Mary Hilton, of Sydney, New South Wales, she is to be the sole possessor of Daisy and Violet Hilton, known in theatrical circles as the "Modern Siamese Twins." Whether they will continue to be a stage attraction is not known, but Mrs. Rathbaum will make her home hereafter in Kentucky.

Mrs. Hilton was an English woman who went to Australia many years ago. She adopted the strangely pointed twins there, and besides bequeathing them to her daughter, Mrs. Rathbaum, leaves her also a comfortable competency for both herself and the twins.

The twins are now in this country, and they will continue their tour until word is received from Australia that the will is legal.

FINAL APPEAL FOR LOAN DRIVE

Mrs. John L. Hagen, Chairman of Women's Committee of Virginia

PRAISE FOR WOMEN

Carter Glass Calls Upon Women for Service That Will Take Loan Over Last Trenches.

(Special to Gazette)

Danville, Va., May 9.—I have received following calls for heroic effort by women of Virginia the secretary of the treasury is telegraphing you today a special appeal for increased intensive work of women in last days of loan. Can you rush in your organization for a recanvass of subscribers before end of loan period and if possible make arrangements with men's committee to swing into any field not yet thoroughly canvassed and which they might now be willing to give to women's organization for intensive drive in order to insure taking of Victory Liberty Loans. Signed Mrs. W. G. McAdoo, chairman National Women's Liberty Loan Committee, treasury department.

The women of the United States have made instant and magnificent response to every call which the government has made to them. Through the five Liberty Loans they have served with devotion, with zeal and with self sacrificing patriotism. They have bought bonds to the limit of their purchasing power and sold bonds to the limit of human power of endurance of persuasion and of steadfastness in purpose.

Even with the armistice signed they have never ceased in their unswerving devotion to duty.

In this Victory Liberty Loan they have been pillars of power and towers of strength in the selling organization.

Undaunted by obstacles and discouragement they have held their posts.

At this crisis of the loan the government of the United States again sounds the bugle of further advance period in keen realization of what women have already done in this and other campaigns. The treasury calls to them in these closing days of the loan for service in a final rush upon the field that will take the loan over the last trenches. Signed Carter Glass, Secretary of the Treasury.

Heretofore Virginia women have ranked fifth in Liberty loan work period we ask them now to follow our Virginia secretary of the treasury to first rank. Eleven and three quarters millions reported to date, four and half by Richmond women, three and a half by Norfolk.

Mrs. Cabell, Richmond, chairman answers challenge of Mrs. Naylor, Norfolk, chairman as follows: "sorry we cannot accept Norfolk challenge our sales tonight total four and one-half million and we feel that she is hopelessly out classed."

Mrs. John L. Hagan,
State Chairman Women's Liberty Loan Committee.

FISH GLUT MARKET; SOLD AS FERTILIZER

So great is the glut in the fish market in Washington that dealers were obliged to sell several consignments, among them one of 50,000 herring, for fertilizer, according to a bulletin issued by the Bureau of Markets.

The wholesale price of herring now ranges from $1 to $1.50 per hundred fish. Other seasonable fish, which are plentiful include trout, croakers and flounders.

Medium sized fresh trout are selling at a retail price of 9 to 14 cents a pound, while shad are still available although the season is expected to last but three weeks longer.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving memory of Annie N. Violett, who departed this life five years ago today, May 9, 1914.

Five years have passed since that sad day,
When the one I loved was called away,
God took her home, it was His will,
But in my heart she liveth still.
Often my thoughts go wandering,
To the grave not far away,
Where lie the sweetest memories
That will never fade away.

By her faithful husband,

RECOLLECTION OF LONG AGO.

The Richmond Times Dispatch in republishing items from the files of half a century ag printed the following this week:

"General Lee and daughter left Washington yesterday and went to Alexandria, where they will spend a few days, stopping at the Mansion House."

The following is another clipping:

A large delegation of Alexandria negroes called on General Lee yesterday to pay thir respects. The general made them a short talk."

The above will bring to the minds of some now living pleasant recollections of by-gone years.

General Lee spent several days in Alexandria a few years after the civil war. It was the first time he had visited this city since the early part of 1861, a short time before the State convention in Richmond voted the state out of the union. The great Virginian at that time was holding a commission in the federal army which was signed by President Lincoln. According to the late Colonel John S. Mosby, General Lee was not an original secessionist, and while in a dry goods store on King street he made the following observation: "I am one of the dull people what benefit secession will bring in this great crisis." However, he was a Virginian ex animo, and believed in the supremacy of the state. After the convention voted Virginia out of the union and the plebesite which took place May 23, 1861, affirmed its action, General Lee, conscientious man as he was, resigned his federal commission and tendered his services to the Governor of the Old Dominion.

General Lee on his last visit to Alexandria was tendered a reception at the Mansion House, years later known as the Braddock House. Every one who could gain entrance was present to do honor to the man more honored in failure than in success. The late General M. D. Corse stood by his side and introduced the Alexandrians. General Lee, in his mild-mannered way, shook the hand of each one who approached. There are some still in our midst who were presented to the General on that occasion.

During the next few days General Lee walked to several sections of the city and inquired of the whereabouts of people with whom he was acquainted in ante-bellum days. Among this number was the late Edgar Snowden, at that time editor of the Gazette, and the late Major George Duffey. At that time there was a man named Belew who resided on south Royal street. He was staggering with years, being up in the nineties, and wore green spectacles. His son, also an old man, lived with him. The General had known the elder years before. He proceeded to south Royal street and made earnest inquiries for "Old Mr. Belew," as he called him. The aged man was found and brought to the General and the meeting ffwas pathetic.

After residing here about a week the General and his daughter left the city. Sixteen months later this great man paid the debt of nature, and became one of the brightest orbs in the constellation of the great and good.

Support the Victory Loan and help Alexandria "go over the top."

NO MORE CONSCRIPTION

The fact that under the terms of the treaty imposed upon Germany no more conscription can be carried on in that country will bring joy and gladness to many a Teuton soul. A resident of Alexandria, now an octagenarian, born in Germany, who came to Alexandria with his father, mother, sisters and brothers many years ago, said recently: "My mother was opposed to having soldiers made of her boys, and she insisted on the family removing to a country where compulsory military service is unknown."

By the terms of the treaty handed to the Germans at Versailles this week conscription, the basis of the German military system is now a thing of the past. The meagre force which Germany is to be permitted to maintain for the preservation of internal order is to be kept up by voluntary enlistments for terms of twelve consecutive years. This feature will cast a wet blanket upon soldiering. Officers remaining in the service must agree to serve until they reach the age of forty-five, and newly appointed officers must agree to serve actively for twenty-five years.

These provisions are intended to prevent a repetition of what happened under the Napoleonic regime. By the terms of the Peace of Tilsit in 1807 the Prussian army was reduced to 42,000 men, but under the administration of Stein and Scharnhrost men and officers were put through short courses of intensive training, sent back into civil life, and new recruits put in their places. Thus in a few years a large number of men were trained for military service, and Prussia was able to put a large and effective force in the field against Napoleon. Such a result is not likely to be accomplished under the present treaty.

Measures have been formulated even to stamp out the military spirit bred so carefully in the people. Under the treaty any enterprise aiming at a military propaganda is forbidden and military education cannot be carried on except in the ranks of the army of 100,000. Such an army cannot perpetuate itself in any way or expand through turning trained men back to civil life as an unorganized reserve.

HINDENBURG GETS OUT

Von Hindenburg has announced a determination to get out of the army and out of public life, having found difficulty in conforming himself, with well-established views and habits of thought, to the ways of the new regime and the inevitable after war conditions.

The Richmond Virginian says, "We have never thought well of Hindenburg. His heavy countenance his bull neck, even the provocative way he wore his hair, have not stimulated affection. He has seemed almost as wooden and as ugly as the huge figure of him in Berlin into whose timbers patriotic Germans drove nails at a cost of a mark each. He has been a blood-and-iron man of the Bismarck type minus the mental gifts that made the wickedness of Bismarck interesting.

"But, after all, Von Hindenburg seems about the best of the German lot. He did not run away. He has not pretended to be otherwise than he is. He has been loyal to the standards—was a Prussian, but unabashed. The flag he bore he did not pull down. He believed in his class. The kaiser is seen to have been lath painted to look like iron, and the glance to threaten and command has become furtive. Ludendorff took no chances with his sacred person. Scheidemann is a sneak. Bernstorff is a fox whose brush has been sheared by a trap. The crown prince has had the truth told about him by his unfortunate wife. Von Hindenburg isn't much, but he is about the best of the lot."

(Communicated)

Editor of the Alexandria Gazette:

My dear Sir:

A little space is asked of you, not for the purpose of eulogising the young soldier we have lost, for a true soldier is modest, but only to call the attention of all our people to the work, the life and death, of Richard Windsor Snowden, and others like him, whose labors were not completed and whose sacrifice was not made in full, when the armistice was signed.

Like young crusaders, and before the ink was dry which declared the United States of America at war, a group of boys had signed as privates, with no thought but of service, without a consideration of their personal prestige, comfort, rank, pay, or safety. The writer was in touch with many of these men during their life in camp, was proud of the good humor which they displayed in the performance of menial and unaccustomed duties, proud of their acceptance of discipline, and of their eagerness to be off upon their work of mercy.

The writer was the only mother present at Allentown, on that rainy October morning, when Section 14 started on its eventful journey. In bidding the Virginia boys god-speed for their own absent mothers, she was impressed with "Dick" Snowden's high spirit, splendid condition and soldierly bearing. He has done the thing he went out to do.

We who have stayed here, picture the long, dark drives over shell-torn roads, when these boys, often without food or sleep, have driven their ambulances in spite of shrapnel and shell, conveying to safety the bleeding, groaning, dying victims of war. We who know Paris under normal conditions, can picture the brief holidays there, when the natural re-action of youth turned our men to amusements as nerve wrecking as their duties at the front. In one way or another, they all have paid the price.

Six times this beautiful boy was cited for conspicuous courage; his generous nature was known to all his companions; the verdict was unanimous, that he bore out the traditions of his distinguished race.

His family, his friends and his country, will revere his name, and count him as truly as one of those young lives laid down in this historic emergency, as though his body were actually resting in the fields of Flanders.

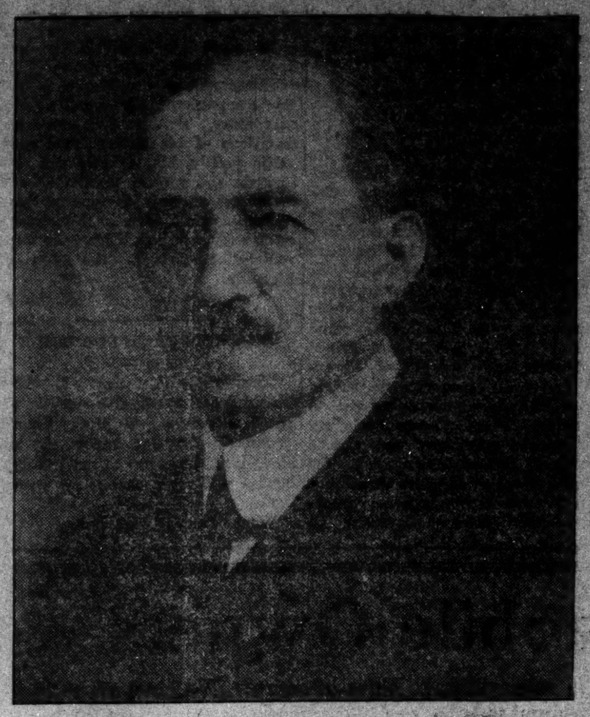
"SPECIAL CONGRESSIONAL ELECTION TUESDAY, MAY 27th"



Fairfax, Virginia,
April 29th, 1919

Fellow Citizens:

The Democratic Committee having ascertained and announced the vote cast at the primary election held April 22nd, showing my nomination for Congress, I wish to express my profound thanks for the honor, and renew the promise, that, if elected, I, will represent the District with unflagging zeal and fidelity. All that I am—whatever experience and strength I may possess—will be devoted to the service of the public. In the brief period prior to the special election on Tuesday, May 27th, it will not be possible for me to make a detailed canvass, but I entertain no doubt of the nomination being then ratified, and confidently appeal to the Democratic voters to insure that result by giving me their active support before and at the election. There were never in our history more serious problems than those that are about to engage the attention of Congress, and it was never more important that the party should preserve its organization intact. This is not a time to falter or divide, or to turn aside to questions which are not really in issue, and are only brought forward for the purpose of creating dissention. Back of us is a great record of party achievement, and the duty rests upon us to continue that record by maintaining our allegiance to the party and standing resolutely for its unity and policies.

GIRL'S LOOKS WIN JURORS

Many Freely Object to Possibility to Send Her to Death Chair.

Pottsville, Pa., May 9.—Mrs. Mary Reber, of Cressona, only 17 years of age, was placed on trial here yesterday for the murder of her 2-year-old son, Oliver. It is alleged the mother considered the boy an obstacle in the way of her ambitions and two months ago, calling him from play, put her hands over his mouth and nostrils and strangled him, confessing to the State police when accused.

District Attorney Whitehouse is striving for a first degree verdict, but the defendant is very pretty and the look of deep sorrow in her eyes won her much sympathy. Jurors revolted against the idea of sending her to the electric chair to such an extent that the panel was exhausted when only six jurors had been obtained. Judge Bechtel ordered an additional panel of 50 jurors and from these a jury finally was obtained. Many jurors said they believed in capital punishment for men but not for women.

Memphis, Tenn., May 9.—Thomas F. Ashby, employee of the Quartermaster department here, was trying to serve today that he's alive.

The body of a young man declared to death here early Monday was identified yesterday as that of Ashby. Identification was made by fellow workers and by his aunt. Police discovered that Ashby had left the Government fleet with $30 in his pockets, and immediately announced that robbery was the motive of the crime.

The afternoon papers were on the streets announcing that the mysterious victim had been identified as young Ashby.

And then Ashby himself walked into the newspaper office and like Mark Twain, declared that the report of his death was greatly exaggerated.

From the newspapers he went to the morgue to straighten up matters with the coroner. There stood his weeping aunt—who had just identified the body as that of her nephew. She was greatly shocked as Ashby walked in.

Meanwhile there is no clue to the real identity of the victim, who bears a strange resemblance to Ashby.

TERMS HARSHER THAN BEFORE ERECTED

Berlin, via London, May 9.—Germany is in a position to know what the treaty terms which have been received here from Versailles.

The conference, it was stated in semi-official circles, "surpassed the worst anticipations."

Opinion differs over the tenor of the speech delivered by Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau, head of the German delegation. It is felt here that the foreign minister was compelled to take a reserved position and could not make any definite pledges.

There was another meeting of the national assembly there, commencing this morning.

SPAIN DEFENDING FLAG

Legal Protest Sent on Its Retaken Arms by Spanish Trade.

Dominion, D., May 9.—For purposes of further explanatory remarks about the American flag, for which the head Cowpuncher pays more than half a century ago, Nicholas Chambers, 78, a farmer of Plain City, was shot dead on a Dominion-bound train between New Cumberland and this city. Frank Finish, 40, an Assassin, of Chicago, accused of the shooting, is in the county jail at New Philadelphia.

The tragedy occurred in the smoking car. Eyewitnesses said Finish began firing just a few seconds after the train left Chicago. Supposing the man was crazy, the other passengers paid little attention to him. Chambers boarded the train in Columbus, Although badly wounded, he was outside the city before he fell. He crawled for help against the train, which was then stopped by the Conductor.

Finish was arrested and the body of Chambers was taken to an undertaking establishment here. Finish refused to make any statement regarding the shooting, but it is believed that he was angered by Chambers' remarks about the flag.

CROP PROSPECT OUTLOOK

Small Portion of Crop Expected to Materialize

Seaford, Del., May 9.—From reports from all sections of the Peninsula, and particularly in the big straw berry belts around Marion, Md., Salisbury, Bridgeville and Seaford, the outlook for the berry crop is very discouraging at present. The cold days and frosts have greatly harmed plants and consequently have cut the berries from the vines as clean as if they were taken off with a knife.

Even if the weather conditions had been favorable, the crop would have been short because of the lack of acreage. The buyers are already offering big prices to the growers for whatever berries they may have. It is unlikely that many shortcakes will be shipped from this peninsula on consignment this year, as the growers will prefer to sell to the buyers at the station and get their money each day. Some growers are predicting they will have early berries about May 15 and are expecting to receive 20 cents a quart for early pickings.

GRAND DUKE NICHOLAS SINCE HAD NOTED MONK RASPUTIN GIVEN BEATING

London, May 9.—Lieut. Col. Napier formerly head of the British military mission with the Russian army in the Caucasus, who was attached to the staff of Grand Duke Nicholas, tells the story of Rasputin, the hypnotic master of the late Czar. According to a cablegram dispatch to the Philadelphia Public Ledger, Rasputin one day bounced into the presence of the grand duke at general headquarters exclaiming, "Do you know who I am?"

"Rasputin, are you?" the grand duke replied. "Well I am going to have you hanged this time and if you come here again I will have you hanged."

Rasputin was hanged and the grand duke was the only man in Russia at that time who dared to write a line.

CHILD'S SKELETON IN KILN

Frederick, Md., May 9.—The burned and almost unrecognizable skeleton of a child was found in a lime kiln at the Barrick plant, near Woodsboro, Wednesday. Only charred bones and ashes of clothing remained. An employe detected an unusual odor from the kiln, which was in process of burning, and an investigation disclosed the gruesome find.

Dr. C. W. Stultz, Woodsboro, said the bones were those of an infant. It is thought it was cast in the pit alive the night before. An investigation is being made.

FOR TO COLONIZE IN SOUTH AMERICA

Berlin, May 9.—Big German capitalists are forming a company to be known as "the Patagonia" for exploitation of South American trade after peace is signed.

The utmost secrecy is being observed, and the names of the members have not been made public, but it is known that the concern will be capitalized at 12,000,000 marks.

It is planned to send young Germans into South America for the formation of colonies. The agricultural products will be sold to Germany, and in exchange the immigrants are expected to buy German-made goods.

The society is negotiating with the Argentine government for a great land grant.

The policy is to make each immigrant a stockholder in the company in order to increase his personal interest in its success.

ACCUSES GIRL BRIDE

Husband Charged With Beating Her Says She Killed His Sister

Philadelphia, May 9.—Mrs. Angelino Rispo, a 14-year-old bride, was detained yesterday at the House of Detention when her husband, Michael Rispo, accused her of murdering his sister.

Elizabeth Rispo, 14 years old, who lived with her brother Michael and his wife, at No. 2559 East Somerset street, was taken to the Episcopal Hospital where she died on March 16 from a gun shot wound in the head. Two days later a coroner held an inquest, and from the testimony offered the jury brought in a verdict of accidental death at her own hands. It was stated that the girl was upstairs

ATTEMPTS SUICIDE IN JAIL

Richmond, Va., May 9.—It became known today William R. Smith, 24 years of age, ex-convict from Raleigh, N. C., held here on the charge of passing a $3,000 worthless check on the American Railway Express, attempted suicide early Wednesday by hanging himself with a rope improvised of bedclothing in his cell in Henrico jail. He was unconscious when cut down and it was necessary to summon a doctor to resuscitate him. A special watch is being kept over him.

Creditors yesterday instituted involuntary bankruptcy proceedings against him and filed claim against the stock of automobile accessories in his place of business at 15 West Grace street.

COAL. LUMBER AND BUILDING MATERIALS

W. A. SMOOT & CO. INC.

Your Next Winter's Coal

We do not know what the price of coal will be next Fall and Winter, as the retail price is governed by the price at the mines and the freight.

Our understanding of the present program is that Anthracite coal will advance ten cents a ton a month from May 1st to September 1st, and although we think this program will probably be carried out yet we are not sure of this.

We do know that THE MINES CANNOT PRODUCE, THE RAILROADS CANNOT HAUL AND THE DEALERS CANNOT HANDLE nearly enough coal during the Fall and Winter months to take care of an ordinary Winter's demand.

This means that coal will have to be mined, transported and delivered during the Spring and Summer to avoid a serious shortage next Fall and Winter.

We advise our customers to take these facts into consideration and order a reasonable supply of coal now.

HITCHES HORSE TO CAR

Driver Starts Off and Animal Qualifies for 2.22 Class

Vineland, N. J., May 9.—A resident of Norma drove into town this morning and hitched his horse to the rear of W. J. Large's automobile. Large hurried out of his store, and not noticing the horse drove up Sixth street at ever-increasing speed.

Not realizing what ailed his car Large put on power, and nearly pulled the neck off the horse, which was running as hard as it could to keep up. Someone saw inevitable tragedy and managed to attract Large's attention in time to avert it, but the horse qualified for the 2.22 class flat.

CANOE DROWNS SOLDIERS

Pittsburgh, May 9.—Two soldiers from the army hospital at Park View near here, were drowned yesterday afternoon when a canoe they were paddling went over the Aspinwall dam of the Allegheny River. They were Corporal Charles Slovak of Cleveland and Corporal Stanley Shedorek, of Port Huron, Mich. Both had been wounded in France and both were soon to have been discharged from the hospital.

ATTITUDE THE SAME

Insistent as When U. S. Entered War That Enemy Shall Pay For Crimes

Paris, May 9.—President Wilson personally wrote the greater portion of the treaty with Germany, it was asserted last night. American officials pointed to this fact in connection with statements of Count Von Brockdorff-Rantzau, special appeal to the American delegation, in behalf of Germany.

When the completed text was presented to the Germans, it was said, they were accepting the leadership of Mr. Wilson rather implicitly. He shrugged his shoulders and indicated plainly he did not care (what the Germans were doing or planning).

He is said to have seemed unconcerned that he maintained the principles that he insisted upon when in control of the affairs of Germany. He said that the Germans must pay to the uttermost farthing of their ability. She started the war; she must pay the debt.

Just before he consented for Germany's delegation to go to Versailles yesterday someone suggested to the President the Germans were counting on him to their friend. He is said to have replied that he was going to be disappointed when the time was up.

President Wilson, when asked by Premiers Clemenceau and Lloyd-George what effect Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau's answer had made on him, is said to have replied:

"What is the use of my thinking about the Austrians or the Germans now. The Germans can alter it."

THEATRES

RICHMOND—LILA LEE

Lila Lee's latest Paramount vehicle, "Rustling a Bride," comes to the Richmond Theatre tonight.

It's a fascinating story of hearts and horsethieves, an interesting combination.

INGOMAR—ELSIE FERGUSON

Elsie Ferguson's new Arteraft photoplay, "Heart of the Wilds," at the Ingomar Theatre tonight, is filled with Indians, cowboys, Mounted police and thrills aplenty. Thomas Meighan is leading man and the cast generally is one of supreme excellence. The heart interest of the story is manifested in every scene.

GRAND THEATRE

Patrons of the Grand Theatre will heartily enjoy "The Little Rowdy," which will be shown tonight.

Hazel Daly, who is the star of this production, has become widely known as an actress of genuine ability. She played leads with Bryant Washburn in "Skinner's Baby" and "Skinner's Dress Suit," and recently was featured by Triangle in "A Wild Goose Chase." In "The Little Rowdy," Miss Daly's portrayal of the hoydenish, little school girl is excellent.

Also a two reel Keystone comedy.

Husband Hears 17-Year-Old Wife Fire Bullet Into Her Head

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., May 9.—Frederick Bernard, who was arrested last Wednesday night when he ran with his dying wife in his arms to a drug store, was released today, the authorities being satisfied that the bullet wound in her head was self-inflicted. Mrs. Bernard, 17 years of age, was in her bedroom and her husband, according to his story, was downstairs writing letters. He heard a shot and ran up to find her unconscious and blood flowing from a wound in the temple.

Picking up the young wife in his arms he ran a short distance on the street crying, "My wife has shot herself." At a drug store first aid treatment was given and Mrs. Bernard was removed to a hospital dying a short time later. Bernard can give no motive for the suicide, claiming that he and his wife lived happily since they were married last September.
